- David Cameron resigns as PM
- Pound crashes to 30-year low
- Johnson and Gove urge calm

Pound bounces back from 30 year low

The Bank of England had to intervene to help the pound rally from a 30-year low following the election. The market called after Mark Carney, the Bank Governor, said he was prepared to inject up to £250 billion into the economy. Mr Carney said he would take "all necessary steps" after the FTSE 100 fell by more than 5 per cent. European ministers said the rally was evidence that markets of the effects of a Brexit were "understandable".

Corbyn rebels move to unseat leader

Jeremy Corbyn could face a leadership contest within days after two Labour MPs called for a motion of no confidence and scores more called for him to resign. Leading party figure demanded Mr Corbyn "step down" because of "being too slow" to secure voters in Labour's seat in the House of Commons. The motion was introduced by Dawn Morgan, MP for the seat of Don Valley. Page 12

Sturgeon eyes fresh bid to break up Britain

Nicola Sturgeon faced the starting gun on an after-Scottish independence referendum campaign as she made a bid to secure a second independence referendum. She said the UK's Brexit vote was a "betrayal" and that she would lead the Scottish people to a second referendum in 2018. She said that if the UK was not able to get out of the EU, she would lead the Scottish people to a second referendum in 2018.

EU leaders demand quick start to exit talks

Britain must begin exit talks "as soon as possible", European Union leaders said yesterday, as they fought to prevent a collapse of the Brexit talks. The UK is set to leave for a second time after leaders said "they" have not begun without delay, despite promises on the Government's website to start the EU exit talks.
